

DOUGLAS WILLIAM ARMITAGE was born at Wolverhampton on February 8, 1893, and was the fourth son of Dr. J. A. Armitage of Hastings and Wolverhampton.

He entered Oundle in September 1906, following his brother F. R. at Laxton House. Prominent alike in work and games he became head of the school and was also captain of football. It was during his captaincy that the school won their first victory over the Leys (1911). From Oundle he went on to Pembroke, Cambridge, where he was awarded an Exhibition for Classics.

After war broke out he joined the Royal Sussex Regiment and was reported missing in October 1915. His death was presumed to have occurred on that date.
