

LESLIE ERIC RUNDELL was the eldest son of the late C. H. Rundell, Solicitor, of Bedford Row (9 John Street), and Mrs. Rundell of Muswell Hill. He was born at Finchley on February 14, 1896, and entered Oundle (School House) in May 1910, leaving in April 1913.

L. E. Rundell was in the 7th Battalion London Regiment, under Colonel Green. He was awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry, when the enemy exploded a mine (March 1916), and in September received a bar to the cross.

Later he was Staff Captain to Brigadier General Kenedy (140th Brigade.) He was wounded by a piece of shell while at tea in a shelter, and was taken to No. 48 Casualty Clearing Station, where he died about 1 a.m. on December 11, 1917.

He was buried at Ruyaucourt, near Bapaume.

An Officer wrote: "He certainly was one of the finest men I have met during the two years I have been over here."

His Company-Sergeant-Major wrote: "Believe me when I tell you that he was admired and liked by his men, who always placed great confidence in him as a leader."
